

I do not feel that allowing this proposed petition does anything to help the consumer or independent ISP's. All this does is allow for a tighter monopolistic grip by the large telephone companies allowing them to squeeze the competition into non-existence. We might as well undo the bell breakup of 20 years ago, and let them merge back into one phone company as they are ever increasingly trying to do just that with these numerous petitions to become un-regulated.